The foreign exchanges were dull and easier, without changes in quotations, which were for business as follows: Bankers' bills, $4,87 and $4,881-2 for long and short sterling respectively; 5.18-3-4 and 5.16-7-8 for francs; 95-5-8 and 95-7-8 for reichmarks; 40-1-4 and 40-1-2 for guilders.

RAILROAD EARNINGS IN MAY.

Thursday, June 28-p. m. The statement of the Pennsylvania Railroad for the month of May makes a remarkably favorable comparison with the month of last year, when it is remembered that those of last year were phenomenal. Including the profits from the Western leased lines, the net for last month is $124,100 less than in May, 1887, but is $577,723 greater than in May, 1886. For the five months ended May in May, 1886. For the five months ended May in the net earnings of the company, including in May, 1886. For the five months ended May 31 the net earnings of the company, including profits or losses by the Western leased lines, for this year are $625,816 less than in 1887, and are

$1,065,637 greater than in 1886. The New-York, Lake Erie and Western state ment for May shows net earnings of $746,223, against $740,602 for the month of 1887, $626,660 in 1886, $314,298 in 1885, and $294,572 in 1884. For the eight months of the company's fiscal year the net earnings are $30,663 less than last year, and $542,990 greater than in 1886. Allowing for the usual amount of "income from other sources," the company's net earnings during the last eight months were over $100,000 greater than the sum required to pay a full dividend on the preferred stock, and the last four months of the year yet to be heard from. Philadelphia and Reading Company's statement for May shows a decrease in net earnings from May, 1887, of $39,224. But the company has adopted the correct and honest system of crediting to a sinking fund 10 cents per ten on all coal mined. Except for this, the net earnings for the month would have shown a gain. As made up, they are $527,863 greater than in May, 1886. For the six months ended May 31-one-half the company's fiscal year—the net earnings are $1,529,965 less than in 1887, but they are $1,253,221 greater than in 1886. The loss from last year is entirely due to the forty days' strike.

THE MARKET FIRM, THOUGH DULL.

The dealings in stocks at the Stock Exchange to-day amounted only to $3,006 shares. And yet the market was firm. There is absolutely nothing to say about the market that has not been repeated here time and again. There is no such things as bull cliques in existence. All the speculative talent of the Street is anchored to the "shert" side, by the impossibility of recouping its contracts, and all the local influences are exerted for the depression of values or to scare holders into selling at current figures. Where the real and phantom stocks are held is a mystery to the Street and to us. That they are not generally held on margins, or by a speculative interest that is to be frightened into selling by the screeds of amateur "experts" has been sufficiently developed during the last month. Time and again, efforts have been made to create a selling market by raids on values, but every time the attempt has been made it has proved futile. Buyers there were at the concessions, and when the raid ended, a quick recovery in values on small transactions followed. To-day after the carlier advances, prices were pushed down only to make good recoveries. The holders of stocks are not combined, while the "shorts" hold hourly meetings to devise methods to break prices, and to a certain extent—to that extent which will not betray them—the members of the "bear" crowd are true to each other. It is a local combination, in distress, using all the machinery for manipulation, against a scattered public interest, which has conadence in the values of what it has purchased. There is only one drawback to the formation of a powerful clique to "twist" the shorts; no large quantity of stocks can be accumulated at the present quotations. We never are much inclined to "bull" St. Paul, and when the present "bear" party were bulling it at 98, we were taken to task for not accepting as law and gospel the half hourly bulletins on its value. But if the "shorts"
